This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

This volume contains descriptions of all water-works completed, under construction or projected in the United States and Canada up to the close of 1896, with later information concerning some new works and projects. The aim has been to give a brief but comprehensive description of each plant, including its history, general character, the capacity of the pumps, reservoirs, stand-pipes, or filters; the extent of the distribution system; and the most important figures relating to the finances of each system. Great pains has been taken to collect information, in addition, bearing on questions of the day, both those relating to economics and to water-works practice, such as: The conditions of franchises; legal difficulties between private water-works companies and cities; conditions governing the use of meters; methods employed in raising money to meet the expenses of extensions to distribution systems; who pays, and how much, for tapping mains for service connections and who for the connections themselves; and whether the several towns listed have sewerage systems.

In general, the figures under distribution and financial, in the case of works built prior to 1896, are for the fiscal year 1895, or 1895-6, many years ending well into 1896. The date the last fiscal year closed is always stated, when ascertained, as well as the date of the report made for this volume and the name of the person who made the same.

The large number of works now requiring description renders necessary the greatest brevity consistent with reasonable fulness and perfect clearness, in order to keep the book within reasonable bounds. Notwithstanding the efforts made to compress the information, 611 closely printed pages are required for the body of this volume, besides which the introduction and table of water rates take up some 30 pages more.

For convenience, the projected works are placed in their proper alphabetical order among the descriptions of completed plants, thus making one complete list of towns for each State and rendering it more easy to find the water-works status of any town. The various classes of works are distinguished by a simple system of numbering, explained in detail at the head of each group.

The table of water rates included in the Manual for 1889-90 proved to be of so much interest and value to water-works officials and others that it has again been made a special feature of the Manual, the fixture and meter rates charged in over 1,250 cities and towns having been collected and tabulated for this book.

—OF—

INTRODUCTION.

The magnitude of the water-works interests of the United States and Canada is in some degree shown by the fact that so large a volume as the present should be required to describe the water-works plants of cities and towns alone, without taking up the many plants for military posts, public institutions and manufacturing and other private interests.

Some facts regarding the general scope of the present issue of the Manual are given in the preface. The following introductory pages contain summaries of the present number of works, their ownership and the number of towns supplied, together with a general review of present tendencies in water-works practice.

NUMBER OF WORKS AND TOWNS WHICH THEY SUPPLY.

Much has been written of late regarding changes in the standard of living, the growth of urban population and the rapid increase in municipal expenditures. Of the many phases of the subject, one that has had but little consideration from the general student of social problems is the growth of water-works plants in number and efficiency. Considering only the number of works, it may be noted that at the beginning of this century there were practically no water-works in the United States or Canada, whereas there are now nearly 3,350 complete works in the two countries, supplying more than that number of towns, of which about 2,780 have been built so recently as since 1880, and some 1,400 in the past six years.

Think of the effect upon the standard of living caused by the introduction of a public water supply! In place of the labor attendant upon lifting water by the old oaken bucket, the more prosaic hand pump, or of carrying water in pails from some spring or stream, only a turn of the faucet is now necessary in hundreds of communities to secure either hot or cold water on any floor of a dwelling. The labor saving thus secured, together with the increase in convenience, comfort and cleanliness, is too evident to need detailed mention, especially as both the old and the new are within the experience of so many. Neither is it necessary to more than refer to the other benefits of public water supplies, such as fire protection, street sprinkling, water motors for household, business and light manufacturing purposes. Altogether, the ideas which these few words will suggest, coupled with the large number of villages, towns and cities provided with water-works in recent years, are sufficient to impress one with the immense change in the standard of living and the customs and habits of a vast portion of our population wrought by this one improvement.

Perhaps a word should be said regarding the effect of so many public water supplies upon the health of the countries in question. In most cases, the introduction of running water by the municipality or some private company means the abandonment of badly polluted surface wells, previously the only available source of supply. Exhaustive studies in Massachusetts and elsewhere have shown conclusively that with the abandonment of surface wells for pure public water supplies typhoid fever has decreased to a most marked and gratifying degree. If the general health of a community could be as easily recorded as the typhoid death rate, doubtless it, too, would show notable improvements with every advent of pure to replace impure water.

The second point in the opening sentence, the relation between the increase in urban population and public water supplies, needs only the passing word that the two act and react on each other.

† Outside towns supplied have to be added to the total number of works; duplicate works have to be deducted from this total to determine the number of towns having public supplies. In the former column are included all towns above one supplied by any single water-works plant: in the latter column are included all works in excess of one in any single municipality.

As to the increase in municipal expenditures, it is evident that public water supplies not only cost money in themselves, but like other improvements have a train of followers, each making new demands on the purse, such as sewerage systems and street sprinkling.

The detailed figures regarding the number of water-works plants in each of the commonwealths making up the United States and each of the provinces which comprise the Dominion of Canada, are given in Table I. To give an idea of the recent increase in the number of works in the different states, figures from the last Manual are given in the first column of the table. These figures include water-works completed or under construction up to July 1, 1891, while those in the Manual for 1897 come down to the close of 1896. It will be seen that the total number of works in the United States has increased, between the two issues, from 2,037 to 3,196, and in Canada from 95 to 145, the grand totals being 2,132 in the middle of 1891, against 3,341 at the close of 1896. This increase is, of course, made up of works built in small towns, as all the larger places have been supplied for a number of years. In the West many of the works are very small, but those included in the total are complete plants as far as they go.

The figures just given are the total number of works which furnish both domestic supply and fire protection, 484 other partial and unclassified plants also being included in the book, as well as 307 projected plants. Reference to these will be made further on. The 3,341 works must not be confused with the number of towns actually supplied because (1) there are a number of cases where two or more water-works are located in one town; and (2) many works supply two or more distinct municipalities. Thus there are 74 works in towns where other works also exist, and 374 outside towns supplied by the works included, making a net increase of 300 in the towns supplied, or 3,641 towns served by the 3,341 water-works.

These 3,641 towns, so far as known, all enjoy both domestic supply and fire protection. In addition, there are in the United States and Canada 210 plants that furnish only a domestic supply and 120 furnishing only fire protection, while 154 plants could not be classified, although it is possible that most of them give only partial service, probably fire protection. Of one sort or another there are, then, about 3,800 public water supplies described in the Manual, furnishing water in about 4,100 cities and towns. Besides these, all available information of value regarding 307 projected works is included, so that the present status of the water supply of over 4,400 places is given in the Manual for 1897.

OWNERSHIP OF WORKS.

Of no less interest than the number of works and towns which they supply is the ownership of the several plants. Of the 3,196 complete works in the United States, 1,690, or more than half, are owned by the municipalities which they supply and 1,489 by private companies, leaving 17 plants of unknown ownership. In Canada, there are 109 public and 35 private plants, with one of unknown ownership.

In the early days of water-works construction in this country private ownership was the rule. Thus, at the opening of the century there were 17 cities with more or less complete public water supplies, only one of which was owned by a municipality. As more works were built the relative number of public plants gradually increased, reaching 27.8 per cent. in 1835, when there were 15 public and 39 private works. It took twenty years for this small number of works to double, at the end of which time, or in 1855, there were still only 106 water-works in the United States. Of these, 48, or 45.3 per cent., were owned by the public. In the five years which foreshadowed the strife of 1861-5, and in the half decade of the war, public ownership fell to about 42 per cent. The war over, water-works were built more rapidly than ever before, until in 1875 there were 422 plants, and the public ownership had increased to 54 per cent. of the total, which point has not since been quite attained, although almost reached at the present time. After 1875 privately owned works increased so rapidly that the percentage of public owned works decreased, until in 1890 it was only 42.9 per cent. Since then it has increased again to 53.2 per cent., or just below the 53.8 per cent. of 1855. But in 1875 there were only 422 works in the United States, while now there are 3,196.

In Canada the public works are now over 75 per cent. of the total, Canadian cities sharing the marked English preference for municipal control of water-works and similar undertakings.

In the several States there is much diversity in the proportions of public and private ownership, all of which is shown in detail in Table I. Taking the country by groups, New England and the South Atlantic States are very evenly divided as to ownership; the Middle, South Central, Southwestern and Pacific States have private far outnumbering public works, while in the [15] Joint ownership from the start.

[16] Works were built in '80 by city and transferred to bondholders in '86, who organized Co.

[17] Small plant built to supply suburb.

The charters or rights of companies have been bought by the municipalities, and works built by the latter, in the following places: Yarmouth, Me.; Wolfboro, N. H.; Arlington, Mass.; Rockport, Mass.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Troy, N. Y., and Louisville, Ky. These purchases were made before the companies in question began construction. In Cleveland a company was incorporated in 1833, but did no work, and the city built a plant in 1856.

The following municipalities, now supplied by private companies, were discussing municipal ownership in the latter part of 1896 or early in 1897: Fort Fairfield, Me.; Madison, Me.; Plymouth, N. H.; Dedham, Mass.; Wakefield and Stoneham, Mass.; Nyack, N. Y.; White Plains, N. Y.; Bangor, Pa.; Du Bois, Pa.; Nazareth, Pa.; St. Augustine, Fla.; Dyersburg, Tenn.; Escanaba, Mich.; Traverse City, Mich.; Washburn, Wis.; Palestine, Tex.; Trinidad, Colo.; San Diego, Cal.; San Luis Obispo, Cal.; Santa Barbara, Cal.; Suisun City, Cal.; Tucson, Ariz.; Reno, Nev.; Cornwall, Ont., and Winnipeg, Man. Brooklyn took steps in '90 to buy the works of the Long Island Water Supply Co., which supply one ward of the city, but legal difficulties have prevented completion of proceedings (see p. 92). About the same appears to be true of Vernon, Tex. (see p. 525.)

[20] Fire protection, only.

[21] The works at New Orleans were built by a company in 1833, bought by the city in 1868, and sold to a company in 1878. The city owns a considerable amount of stock in the company, and is represented on the board of directors.

[22] The works at both St. Cunegonde and St. Henri de Montreal were originally built by companies in 1879 and ——, respectively. Each plant is reported as having been sold to the city in 1891 and immediately sold by the city to another company.

In addition to the plants in the above list of changes from public to private ownership a plant at White Haven, Pa., which furnishes a domestic supply, only, was originally built by the borough and sold to a company in 1865.

North Central and Northwestern States the reverse is true. Many individual States are at direct variance with their group tendency. Maine, with 57 works, having only 7 public plants, while Massachusetts has 113 public to 38 private works. New York and Pennsylvania contain the most of the works in the Middle group, with its preponderance of private ownership, but New York has 172 public to 170 private works, while Pennsylvania has only 82 public to 259 private plants.

One of the most significant things regarding ownership is the strong tendency to public control in the larger cities. Of the 50 largest cities in the United States 19 have changed from private to public ownership, and only 9 are now dependent upon private companies for their supply, as follows: San Francisco, New Orleans, Omaha, Denver, Indianapolis, New Haven, Paterson, Scranton and Memphis.

The New Orleans works were once bought by the city and afterwards sold to a private company. The only cities of size which have built works and afterwards sold them to a company are Peoria, Ill., Lexington, Ky., and Chester, Pa. The first of these had a population of about 40,000, and the other two about 20,000 each, in 1890.

Altogether about 200 cities and villages have changed from private to public ownership, and only one-tenth of the number from public to private. Over half of the changes from private to public ownership have been made since the close of 1890 and about one-third of the reverse changes in the same period. The geographical distribution of the works, the dates of the changes, the dates the works were built and the 1890 populations of the cities in which the works are located are shown in Table II.

The largest cities which have changed from private to public ownership since 1890 are Kansas City and Syracuse. Duluth has municipal works under construction, and has voted several times to buy out the local company, but through legal defects in the elections has been prevented from doing so.

Massachusetts takes the lead of the states in changes from private to public ownership, 30 companies, located in 27 different cities and towns, having given way to public ownership, generally through purchase, the changes being begun with the completion of the Boston works by the city in 1848. There remain in the state 38 private, against 113 public works, nearly half of all the plants originally built by companies having been bought by cities or displaced by city plants, and about 20 per cent. of all the works in the state being included in the change. Not a plant built by a city in this state has been turned over to a company.

PRESENT TENDENCIES IN WATER-WORKS PRACTICE.

Of absolutely new things in water-works practice since the publication of the last "Manual," the air-lift pump stands first. Five years ago, it is probably safe to say, not a water-works superintendent had even heard of the theory of the air-lift pump, while to-day the device is in use in several scores of cities. It has come rapidly into use because of its simplicity as a means of raising water from deep wells, and is popular because it affords so ready a means of increasing the yield of wells that have begun to decrease in capacity.

Next to the air-lift pump as a unique thing in raising water comes the gasoline engine, driving some simple form of pump. This, too, is often used for deep wells, but the feature which has brought it so rapidly into use is its extreme simplicity in operation, requiring, in the case of small plants, no constant attendant. This feature, combined with its low first cost and the ease and economy with which it may be started and stopped, has made water-works a possibility and a fact in a great many small Western towns in the past five years. In the Eastern part of the country it has not been employed so much, because the need of a public water supply is not so imperative in small villages as in places of similar size on the Western plains, and when needed the demand may more often be met by small gravity supplies from hillside springs or mountain streams.

The electric motor as a means of driving pumping machinery has a most promising future. A number of such motors are now furnished with current from electric lighting or power plants. There are many pumping stations located at points quite distant from any railway, involving, where steam is used, long wagon hauls for the coal. Some of these are outside the town and others are high service stations, supplying limited sections of a city. In either case it would often be more advantageous to convey current than coal to the pumps. There seems to be a special field for electric pumps for high service supplies, although gasoline engines might be preferable where the areas of population are limited. In many pumping systems the whole of a hilly town is on one pumping service, necessitating a needlessly high head on the pumps in order to supply the higher levels. Often this might be obviated, or water provided for some section without a supply, by having a high service, but the cost of a separate supply main or pumping station seems prohibitory. Electric or gasoline driven pumps might solve the problem, either saving expense in pumping or making some beautiful but elevated residence section more inviting to home seekers.

Notwithstanding the development of electric and gasoline power for pumping, the time-honored windmill still retains a place in connection with public water supplies. To be sure, it is dependent upon the vagaries of the wind, but where the principal object of the water-works is to keep a small tank filled for fire protection, the windmill does excellent service. The modern windmill is wonderfully cheap in construction, requires very little attention, and when supplemented by some more reliable power for use in calms, the combination will lift water for a small village at a remarkably low cost. A gasoline engine would make a good running mate for a windmill, although in appearance the pair might seem decidedly ill-mated. In several instances noted in the "Manual," economy in construction is effected by placing the windmill on top of the tank to which water is pumped. The trestle supporting the tank might be enclosed to house a supplementary pump, when one is provided.

Passing now from small to large pumping plants, the increasing use of pumps with very high duties may be noted. It is true that a few pumps of comparatively high duty were in operation prior to 1890, notably the Corliss pumping engines at Pawtucket. In the last few years a specification now and then has called for a duty of 140,000,000 ft. lbs., or even higher.

A few years ago it looked as if crude oil might, especially under favorable local conditions, be adopted much more generally than it has been as fuel for water-works boilers, but there have been few if any notable additions to the list of places using oil. Of large cities, Detroit still uses oil, but no other important city can be recalled where oil is in use, although a number of similar cities still use it.

In the introduction to the "Manual" for 1890-1 some figures were brought together, showing very conclusively that the cities having low water consumption per capita had, quite generally, a large percentage of their taps metered, and also that high consumption commonly prevailed where the contrary was true. Great care has been taken to ascertain for the 1897 "Manual" the general conditions governing the use of meters, as well as the extent of their use. It appears from the reports received that the meter is growing in favor, both with water officials and consumers. Some cities and private companies still restrict the use of meters by requiring large deposits or rentals for their use and high rates for the water consumed, but others go so far contrary as to provide meters without cost to the consumer, at the same time making a low price for the water passing through them. Quite a number of works, including some small ones, have adopted the full meter system of late, and many others are moving as rapidly as possible in that direction. The initial step is generally the metering of a few of the largest consumers, proceeding from this to the general adoption of meters, for all but domestic consumers, and making meters possible, even for these and other small water takers. There seems to be a common agreement among water-works officials that, whoever may own the meter, it is essential that the water department should control it, and also that it is not the liberal use but the absolutely useless waste of water that is being fought, and which meters operate to check.

One of the most revolutionary changes in water-works construction within the past five years has been the use of riveted steel pipe for conduits of large sizes. The pioneer in this line, the Newark supply main, 48 ins. in diameter and 21 miles long, was put in use in 1892. Since then other notable steel conduits have been constructed for the water supplies of Rochester, Allegheny, Cambridge, Portland, Ore., Vancouver, B. C., and a large steel intake has been laid on the bed of Lake Skaneateles in connection with the Syracuse water-works. Improved preservative coatings for steel pipe are aiding greatly in inspiring confidence in its durability.

Wood stave pipe continues in favor in the West, but its use has not extended east of the Mississippi River, at least for conduits of any length. In rough country wood stave conduits surpass steel in ease of transportation as much as it, in turn, surpasses cast iron.

The mention of the Newark pipe line brings to mind the fact that the Venturi meter was first used here in connection with a water-works plant and has since been adopted at a number of other places. This device bids fair to come into general use for measuring large quantities of water, there being no limit to the quantity which one meter can measure. It is especially applicable to gravity supplies and to determining the consumption of water from branch pipe lines, either for the supply of a section of a city or where several municipalities are supplied by one plant. The consumption of water from gravity works is now in most cases an entirely unknown quantity, a condition to be avoided if a water-works is to be operated intelligently.

In the design of elevated tanks, curved bottoms have recently been used in a number of instances, and steel supporting towers or trestles are now commonly employed. The elevated tank is now preferred by many engineers to the stand-pipe, it being recognized that in many instances the effective upper 20 or 30 ft. of water can be supported more cheaply, and perhaps safely, by a trestle than by a body of water enclosed in a cylinder. Where high hills are available for sites, and storage is quite as important as pressure, stand-pipes have advantages of their own. The elevated tank is most used in the West, in connection with small water-works systems, where from 30,000 to 60,000 gallons of water stored at a moderate elevation, a well, a small pumping station, a few thousand feet of mains and a few hydrants constitute the water supply for hundreds of small communities. The cost of such a small water-works system is often as low as $5,000 to $6,000, and the benefits to the health and comfort of the community and its advantage as a protection from fire make it a most potent factor in increasing the comfort and attractiveness of village life.

Five years have seen a wonderful increase in the popular demand for pure water. This has been secured in many instances by providing entirely new and naturally satisfactory sources of supply, and in others by some method of water purification. Mechanical filters were introduced some 12 or 15 years ago, and slow sand filtration has been in use at a few places in this country for many years. But within the past five to seven years each process has been coming rapidly to the front, until in the present "Manual" over 100 mechanical filtration plants are listed, and perhaps 10 or 12 filter-bed systems operated in accordance with the recent flood of light on the subject. Slow sand filtration has been gradually gaining in favor, as the result of disinterested scientific investigation. Mechanical filters have been adopted at scores of places to remove such manifest impurities as silt, color, vegetable matter, odor and iron, aeration commonly supplementing filtration where odor or iron are to be removed. Such impurities as these appeal so powerfully to the senses that the people rise up in veritable wrath and demand their removal. Equally strong insistence on the removal of unseen, but infinitely more dangerous, organic impurities comes more slowly, but is making itself felt none the less surely in many communities. Chemistry, bacteriology and good common sense are aiding mightily in placing impure water supplies in their true light before the public, and in indicating how their use may be rendered unnecessary.

While much is claimed for the bacterial efficiency of mechanical filters, the fact remains that the claims are not yet so firmly verified by scientific research as are those of slow sand filtration. The elaborate experiments at Providence tend to greatly increase confidence in the bacterial efficiency of the process, and all interested in the subject are eagerly awaiting the results of the yet more exhaustive Louisville experiments, on a water of an altogether different character, carried on with a variety of makes of filters, all sufficiently large to make them, in point of size, comparable with filters in regular use. There is no doubt but what both mechanical and slow sand filtration have a great future in this country, and that with the aid of one or the other, pure water for all is a possibility.

There are indications that sedimentation will come into still more general use for waters carrying silt. Large settling basins have been built within a few years at St. Louis and Omaha, and some have long been in use elsewhere. Filter beds for St. Louis were recommended 30 years ago by the late Jas. Kirkwood, in an elaborate report, which, for a quarter of a century, was about the only available treatise in English on the subject of filtration. Mr. Kirkwood considered settling basins an essential accompaniment of filtration, and they were built, although the filters were not.

Larger settling basins have been constructed since, in connection with the new source of supply, higher up the Mississippi River, and the addition of filters is now under consideration. Besides Providence, Louisville and St. Louis, at each of which places filters will doubtless be installed within a few years, Cincinnati and Minneapolis are practically committed to filtration, and Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Albany may soon follow. Other cities, great and small, are also rapidly coming into line, so that in ten years we may expect to see pure water and low typhoid death rates in many places where the contrary now prevails.

In closing this review of some of the most notable tendencies in water-works practice, a word should be said regarding the beneficial effect upon these undertakings which must result from the recent interest taken in the reform of municipal government. While many a familiar name still on the list of officials attests the fact that in many cities a faithful and efficient water-works superintendent or secretary is appreciated, there are more changes than can be accounted for merely by natural causes, or removals for the good of the service alone. If any public servant becomes valuable with increased years and experience, it is the man responsible for the operation of a water-works plant. It is certainly to be hoped that with better municipal government there may come a change in the policy which is still followed in too many cities of making a change in the water supply department heads with every change in the dominant faction in municipal politics; and that instead we may everywhere see the man who discharges his duties faithfully and well retained in his position year after year, so long as his meritorious service continues.

—OF—
AMERICAN WATER-WORKS,
1897.

GROUP I.—NEW ENGLAND STATES.

Water-Works Completed, in Process of Construction or Projected, in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

(EXPLANATORY NOTE.—The populations, in parentheses, follow directly after the names of the counties, and are the U. S. Census figures for 1890 (or Canadian for 1891), except when otherwise stated. In some cases village populations could not be separated from those of the township in which the villages are located. The words "Rept. by," at or near the close of each description, merely indicate the person who submitted written information for this issue of the Manual, and are not designed to make that person responsible for all the information given, some of which has been taken from previous Manuals, printed annual reports and various other approved sources. The letter D prefixed to the number of each municipality indicates that a domestic supply, only, is furnished. In like manner F indicates fire protection, and P, projected work. A short dash and interrogation mark indicate uncertainty regarding the proper classification.)

4. BAR HARBOR, Hancock Co. (624.) Built in '74 by Bar Harbor Water Co. In town of Eden, which was authorized to subscribe to $2,000 of Co.'s stock. In '93, reported that until within a short time the town received water for municipal purposes free of charge, but now the town pays $100 for each fire hydrant. SUPPLY.—Eagle Lake, by gravity. From press reports it appears that from about '88 to '93, or longer, there was a conflict between the old Co. and persons interested in the introduction of new works under a charter granted about '88 to the Eden Water Co. The new Co. secured extensions to its charter, the last one ('93) conditioned on commencing "actual business" by July, '96, but to become void if the old Co. made certain improvements in supply and distributing mains by July, '94. In the latter part of '93 it was reported that old Co. sold out to wealthy cottagers (in whose interest new Co. seems to have been) for $175,000, and that contract was let for improvements. Directors of reorganized Co. in '93 were reported as Jno. S. Kenney and others of New York, J. Morrill of Boston, and Fred C. Lyman of Bar Harbor.

METROPOLITAN WATER SUPPLY.

Metropolitan Water Board was constituted in '95 to construct, maintain and operate works providing a sufficient supply of pure water to the following cities and towns: Belmont, Boston, Chelsea, Everett, Hyde Park, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Newton, Revere, Somerville, Watertown and Winthrop, and such other municipalities within a radius of 10 miles from the State House at Boston as may, on application, be admitted to the district. Up to Jan 16, '97, no other municipalities had been admitted to the district, but Quincy had voted in favor of entering and several others were considering the matter. The general plans for these works is in accordance with a report made by the Massachusetts State Board of Health in '95, after extended investigations, under the direction of the then Chief Engineer of the Board, F. P. Stearns. The supply will be from the South Branch of the Nashua River, taken from a dam at Clinton, combined with the present Sudbury and Cochituate supply works of Boston, the two sources, in a series of dry years, having daily capacities of 105,000,000 and 68,000,000 galls. respectively. A dam is being built at Clinton to form a 63,000,000,000-gall. reservoir, flooding about 6¼ sq. miles. From this an aqueduct 12 miles long, with a daily carrying cap. of 300,000,000 galls., is being built to carry the impounded water to Basin 5 of the Boston Water-Works in Southborough and Marlborough, now under construction, and to have a cap. of 7,500,000,000 galls. and an area of 2 sq. miles. From this reservoir water will pass through the present Boston aqueducts, which, with the other portions of the Sudbury and Cochituate supply works, not included in the Boston distributing system, are to be acquired by the Metropolitan Water Board. Pumping stations will be built at Chestnut Hill and elsewhere to deliver water with ample pressure to all parts of the system, and large supply mains will be laid from this point. The Board was appointed in July, '95, by the Governor, as follows: Henry H. Sprague, Boston, Chn.; Wilmot R. Evans, Everett; Jno. R. Freeman, Winchester. Mr. Freeman afterwards resigned and the vacancy was filled by Mr. Henry P. Walcott, Chn. Mass. State Board of Health. The heads of the Engineering Corps are as follows: Consult. Engrs., Jos. P. Davis, Boston, and A. Fteley, New York; Chf. Engr., Frederic P. Stearns; Engr. Distribution Dept., Dexter Brackett; Engr. Sudbury Dept., Desmond FitzGerald; Engr. Dam and Aqueduct Dept., Thos. F. Richardson; Engr. Reservoir Dept., Hiram A. Miller; Principal Office Asst., Reuben Shirreffs. REFERENCES.—General review of system, with map and general details of dam, abstracted from special rept. At time of incorp. as city both fire districts owned mains and water was supplied by Cos., as noted in detail below.

CHICOPEE WATER CO. and CENTRAL FALLS FIRE DISTRICT.

First record of public water supply in town of Chicopee is in real estate deed of '44, indicating that a small domestic plant was in existence. In '48 Central Falls fire district was organized and contracted with owners of plant, Bemis & McClannan, for water for fire reservoirs and engine houses. In '67 district began laying cast iron mains and setting hydrants, water being furnished for fire protection, only, first by Ames Mfg. Co., and later by Dwight Mfg. Co., also. In '77, Chicopee Water Co. was organized, buying out owner of private plant for $36,400. Co. apparently supplied water for domestic purposes, only, until '86, when fire district contracted with it to furnish water for fire purposes for $1,500 per yr., giving Co. right to supply water for domestic purposes from same mains. The district never furnished water for domestic use. In '93, Co. was bought out by city.

CHICOPEE FALLS FIRE DISTRICT.

Organized in '48 for fire protection. First supplied water for domestic use in '81, contracting with Chicopee Mfg. Co. to furnish water for fire purposes for $365 per yr., and for domestic purposes for one-half the receipts from private consumers. This contract remained in force during existence of district.

GROUP II.—MIDDLE STATES.

Water-Works Completed, in Process of Construction or Projected, in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and District of Columbia.

(EXPLANATORY NOTE.—The populations, in parentheses, follow directly after the names of the counties, and are the U. S. Census figures for 1890 (or Canadian for 1891), except when otherwise stated. In some cases village populations could not be separated from those of the township in which the villages are located. The words "Rept. by," at or near the close of each description, merely indicate the person who submitted written information for this issue of the Manual, and are not designed to make that person responsible for all the information given, some of which has been taken from previous Manuals, printed annual reports and various other approved sources. The letter D prefixed to the number of each municipality indicates that a domestic supply, only, is furnished. In like manner F indicates fire protection, and P, projected work. A short dash and interrogation mark indicate uncertainty regarding the proper classification.)

EAST JERSEY WATER CO.

NEWARK CONTRACT.—Sept. 24, '89, this Co. (Lehigh Valley R. R. Co., guarantor) contracted with city of Newark to secure water rights, build reservoirs and pipe line of sufficient capacity to furnish city with gravity supply of 50,000,000 galls. per day, delivered at Belleville receiving reservoir, with branch main capable of delivering 25,000,000 galls. per day at South Orange Ave. high service reservoir, latter under head equivalent to 300 ft. elev. above tide. City agreed to buy water for 25 yrs. or to purchase works from Co. Price per 1,000,000 galls. was to be $39 up to 20,000,000 per day, then diminishing by 50 cts. until price reached $36. City elected to buy works, which it did at contract price of $6,000,000. In consideration of right to use 22,500,000 galls. per day until Sept. 24, 1900, Co. agreed to allow city to retain $2,000,000 of contract price until 1900. City has paid $3,500,000, retaining $500,000 on account of questions which have arisen regarding fulfillment of contract. In '96, it was determined that the 48-in. pipe line had dy. capacity of only about 37,000,000 galls., and the 36-in., of 22,500,000 galls., instead of 50,000,000 and 25,000,000 galls., respectively. Supplementary contract was made between Co. and Newark, by which latter agreed to accept the smaller mains and pay Co. $10,000, Co. agreeing to parallel the 48-in. main with a 48 and 42-in. pipe, instead of merely laying a pipe large enough to make up the deficiency of 13,000,000 galls. Under the contract between Co. and city Newark may sell Pequannock water inside its present or future limits and to territory comprised in townships of Belleville, Clinton, East Orange and South Orange. City cannot sell water to municipalities outside this limit and Co. cannot sell water within it. After Sept. 24, 1900, all water from Penquannock drainage area becomes property of Newark. See above for description of works as built. JERSEY CITY CONTRACT.—In '96 Co. began a partial and temporary supply to Jersey City, delivering balance or remnant of Pequannock water, not then already sold, through 42-in. Venturi meter and about 10,000 ft. of 42-in. steel pipe, laid by it between the Belleville reservoirs of Newark and Jersey City. This included the crossing of the Passaic River, which was effected by 7 16-in. submerged cast-iron pipes. Contract provides that city shall pay $43 per 1,000,000 galls. up to 20,000,000 galls. per day, then on a sliding scale down to $22 per 1,000,000 galls, when 50,000,000 galls. are delivered. MONTCLAIR CONTRACT.—Co. delivers water to the Montclair water Co. through a 16-in. Venturi meter at Brookdale from its original 48-in. pipe line. This water supplies several municipalities. See Montclair. FRANKLIN CONTRACT.—Franklin Township (Nutley is the principal village) buys water from Co. through meter at pipe line. KEARNEY CONTRACT.—Co. has contract to deliver water to Kearney through 16-in. Venturi meter near Jersey City reservoir, but this has not gone into effect. The Pequannock water is being furnished, however, by Jersey City. BAYONNE CONTRACT.—Co. delivers water to New York & New Jersey Water Co., through 30-in. Venturi meter, at the Jersey City reservoir, for supply of Bayonne, which see. MANAGEMENT.—Prest., E. P. Wilbur; V.-Prest., Henry S. Drinker; Secy., D. G. Baird; Treas., Jas. A. MUNICIPAL WORKS.

Built in '95 by borough; put in operation April 1. Engr., Jos. H. Johnson. Contrs., W. S. Whitney, Allentown, and Kay & Coon, Bellwood. Co. (see above) applied for injunction to prevent building of borough works; Court of Common Pleas sustained demurrer and dismissed bill Sept. 9, '95. In May, '96, higher court reversed above order and directed that the "record be remitted for further proceedings." Court apparently held that borough had originally granted an exclusive franchise, which shut out borough as well as Co. from building competing works. Meanwhile borough appears to continue to operate its works. SUPPLY.—Springs, by gravity. RESERVOIR.—Cap., 2,500,000 galls.; storage. FISCAL YEAR CLOSED Apr. 1, '96. FRANCHISE.—20 yrs. from '90. LEGAL DIFFICULTIES.—Lower court declared franchise forfeited, Dec. 5, '95. In July, '96, State Supreme Court reversed decision. It appears that Co. was limited by franchise to certain springs, and that yield proving insufficient borough refused to pay hydrant rental and secured annulment of franchise. Higher court stated case was one for amicable adjustment by reduction of rates or increased supply. SUPPLY.—Springs, by gravity, and deep wells, by pumping. SPRING BROOK WATER SUPPLY CO.

(General Explanatory Note.—Controls the Cos. supplying Wilkes-Barre (see above) and most or all of those in the valley from there to Scranton, including the People's Water Co., which supplies a part of the 20th ward of Scranton. Aside from the Cos. indicated, the principal ones controlled are those at Pittston and Plymouth. Parent Co. gave Cos. controlled by it and places supplied in two separate lists, so the connections between Cos. and municipalities cannot be indicated throughout. Where this is possible it has been done under the several localities, in their proper alphabetical order. It is also impossible to indicate with certainty the present sources of supply of the several places, and in general the character and extent of the works, owing to the fact that only one general rept., giving aggregates, has been made by the parent Co. Some of the old works, described in previous Manuals, doubtless have new sources of supply, while others retain the original supplies. For the reasons stated above, the information given in earlier Manuals is repeated in this under the several plants previously described, corrected to date in case local officials have given later information.—Ed.)

Water-Works Completed, in Process of Construction or Projected, in Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

(EXPLANATORY NOTE.—The populations, in parentheses, follow directly after the names of the counties, and are the U. S. Census figures for 1890 (or Canadian for 1891), except when otherwise stated. In some cases village populations could not be separated from those of the township in which the villages are located. The words "Rept. by," at or near the close of each description, merely indicate the person who submitted written information for this issue of the Manual, and are not designed to make that person responsible for all the information given, some of which has been taken from previous Manuals, printed annual reports and various other approved sources. The letter D prefixed to the number of each municipality indicates that a domestic supply, only, is furnished. In like manner F indicates fire protection, and P, projected work. A short dash and interrogation mark indicate uncertainty regarding the proper classification.)

GROUP IV.—GULF AND MISSISSIPPI VALLEY STATES.

Water-Works Completed, in Process of Construction or Projected, in Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Kentucky.

(EXPLANATORY NOTE.—The populations, in parentheses, follow directly after the names of the counties, and are the U. S. Census figures for 1890 (or Canadian for 1891), except when otherwise stated. In some cases village populations could not be separated from those of the township in which the villages are located. The words "Rept. by," at or near the close of each description, merely indicate the person who submitted written information for this issue of the Manual, and are not designed to make that person responsible for all the information given, some of which has been taken from previous Manuals, printed annual reports and various other approved sources. The letter D prefixed to the number of each municipality indicates that a domestic supply, only, is furnished. In like manner F indicates fire protection, and P, projected work. A short dash and interrogation mark indicate uncertainty regarding the proper classification.)

Water-Works Completed, in Process of Construction, or Projected, in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

(EXPLANATORY NOTE.—The populations, in parentheses, follow directly after the names of the counties, and are the U. S. Census figures for 1890 (or Canadian for 1891), except when otherwise stated. In some cases village populations could not be separated from those of the township in which the villages are located. The words "Rept. by," at or near the close of each description, merely indicate the person who submitted written information for this issue of the Manual, and are not designed to make that person responsible for all the information given, some of which has been taken from previous Manuals, printed annual reports and various other approved sources. The letter D prefixed to the number of each municipality indicates that a domestic supply, only, is furnished. In like manner F indicates fire protection, and P, projected work. A short dash and interrogation mark indicate uncertainty regarding the proper classification.)

*Under legislation of '93 and '95 municipalities in this State may own or control waterworks through the agency of a company in which they own stock. This is intended to facilitate the construction of works under municipal control, where the 2% bonded indebtedness limit renders ordinary city ownership impossible. It is said to be important that contractors and supply men, operating in Indiana, bear the above in mind, as where this plan prevails bills come under lien law, while in case interest on bonds is not paid, bondholders may foreclose on plant. Mr. John J. Hainsworth, Consult. Engr., Franklin, Ind., states in a letter dated Jan. 1, '97, that the following works come under above plan (some on account of extensions?), and perhaps others: Albion, Attica, Decatur, Fowler, Garrett, Hammond, Huntington, Monticello, Portland, Rushville and Sullivan. He also states that Iowa and Wisconsin passed similar laws in '95, but so far as he knows, nothing has yet been done under them.

GROUP VI.—NORTHWESTERN STATES.

Water-Works Completed, in Process of Construction or Projected, in Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Wyoming and Montana.

(EXPLANATORY NOTE.—The populations, in parentheses, follow directly after the names of the counties, and are the U. S. Census figures for 1890 (or Canadian for 1891), except when otherwise stated. In some cases village populations could not be separated from those of the township in which the villages are located. The words "Rept. by," at or near the close of each description, merely indicate the person who submitted written information for this issue of the Manual, and are not designed to make that person responsible for all the information given, some of which has been taken from previous Manuals, printed annual reports and various other approved sources. The letter D prefixed to the number of each municipality indicates that a domestic supply, only, is furnished. In like manner F indicates fire protection, and P, projected work. A short dash and interrogation mark indicate uncertainty regarding the proper classification.)

In some cases village populations could not be separated from those of the township in which the villages are located. The words "Rept. by," at or near the close of each description, merely indicate the person who submitted written information for this issue of the Manual, and are not designed to make that person responsible for all the information given, some of which has been taken from previous Manuals, printed annual reports and various other approved sources. The letter D prefixed to the number of each municipality indicates that a domestic supply, only, is furnished. In like manner F indicates fire protection, and P, projected work. A short dash and interrogation mark indicate uncertainty regarding the proper classification.)

Water-Works Completed, in Process of Construction or Projected, in Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Idaho and Alaska.

(EXPLANATORY NOTE.—The populations, in parentheses, follow directly after the names of the counties, and are the U. S. Census figures for 1890 (or Canadian for 1891), except when otherwise stated. In some cases village populations could not be separated from those of the township in which the villages are located. The words "Rept. by," at or near the close of each description, merely indicate the person who submitted written information for this issue of the Manual, and are not designed to make that person responsible for all the information given, some of which has been taken from previous Manuals, printed annual reports and various other approved sources. The letter D prefixed to the number of each municipality indicates that a domestic supply, only, is furnished. In like manner F indicates fire protection, and P, projected work. A short dash and interrogation mark indicate uncertainty regarding the proper classification.)

(EXPLANATORY NOTE.—The populations, in parentheses, follow directly after the names of the counties, and are the U. S. Census figures for 1890 (or Canadian for 1891), except when otherwise stated. In some cases village populations could not be separated from those of the township in which the villages are located. The words "Rept. by," at or near the close of each description, merely indicate the person who submitted written information for this issue of the Manual, and are not designed to make that person responsible for all the information given, some of which has been taken from previous Manuals, printed annual reports and various other approved sources. The letter D prefixed to the number of each municipality indicates that a domestic supply, only, is furnished. In like manner F indicates fire protection, and P, projected work. A short dash and interrogation mark indicate uncertainty regarding the proper classification.)

In some cases village populations could not be separated from those of the township in which the villages are located. The words "Rept. by," at or near the close of each description, merely indicate the person who submitted written information for this issue of the Manual, and are not designed to make that person responsible for all the information given, some of which has been taken from previous Manuals, printed annual reports and various other approved sources. The letter D prefixed to the number of each municipality indicates that a domestic supply, only, is furnished. In like manner F indicates fire protection, and P, projected work. A short dash and interrogation mark indicate uncertainty regarding the proper classification.)

MONTREAL WATER & POWER CO.

First known as Montreal Island Water & Electric Co., afterwards as above. Began operations about '89, and in '90 and '91 secured control of water supply in the seven municipalities adjoining Montreal (one of which has since been anexed to Montreal) and soon expects to supply three other municipalities, as stated below. From Jan. 30 to Oct. 8, '91, Co. bought the municipal plants supplying Cote St. Antoine, Cote St. Louis (now St. Denis Ward of Montreal), Maisonneuve, St. Cunegonde and St. Henri; within same period it also secured contracts to supply Cote St. Paul, St. Louis du Mile End and Outremont. Of the places named, Cote St. Paul and Outremont were without water when the contracts were made; St. Cunegonde owned complete works; the other five places had distribution systems (probably owned by municipalities, except Cote St. Antoine) and bought water by meter measurement from Montreal, under 5-yr. contracts, dated as follows: Cote St. Antoine and Maisonneuve, '84; Cote St. Louis, '86; St. Louis du Mile End, '89; Cote la Visitation, Oct., '91. The St. Cunegonde works were built in '79 and the St. Henri in '80, each by Berger & Beique, and each were bought by the respective cities in '90 or '91. Water for St. Henri was supplied from St. Cunegonde. The Cote St. Antoine plant was built by the St. Antoine Water Co., in '88. In March, '94, although four of the above contracts had expired, several years before, Montreal was still supplying the water consumed in the municipalities. SUPPLY.—St. Henri, St. Cunegonde, Westmount and Cote St. Paul, all on the west, are supplied from the St. Cunegonde works, by pumping from the St. Lawrence River direct and to a reservoir in Cote des Neiges (see St. Cunegonde). The supply of the four other municipalities, and the St. Denis Ward of Montreal, is still from the Montreal works, the Cote la Visitation contract with Montreal, direct, expiring in Oct., '96. All the municipalities named, together with Cote des Neiges and Outremont, will be supplied, on completion of the Co.'s works, by water power from the Riviere des Prairies (Back River), otherwise the water of the Ottawa River at the north side of the Island of Montreal. DISTRIBUTION AND FINANCIAL.—Withheld by Co. for the present, but figures regarding some of the municipalities are given separately, under them in their places. MANAGEMENT.—Prest., Edwin Hanson, Montreal. Secy., Albert Carvel, Imperial Bldg., Montreal.

WATER RATES IN OVER 1,250 CITIES AND TOWNS IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

INTRODUCTORY.

The figures given in the following pages have been taken from schedules of water rates received in 1896 and early in 1897 from the officials in charge of the several water-works included. The variety of methods employed in determining what a consumer shall pay for water drawn through a given fixture is great, but it is thought that the figures given will be serviceable for general comparison.

Where an asterisk is prefixed to the name of a place it indicates that the rates given are those charged by a private company; where there is no asterisk the rates are those of a plant owned by the municipality. For convenience the populations of the cities and towns in the list are given in the second column.

Specific explanations for each of the rates tabulated are as follows:

FAMILY RATES.—These are based on a family of five, including servants and children, in a 7 or 8-room house, generally the latter. Where the front width of the house, its number of stories, or any other of a variety of conditions govern the family rate, a figure has been selected as nearly as possible comparable with the above standard. Under the family rate, water is generally allowed for all the uses of the kitchen and about the house wherever carried by hand; in other words, for all household uses so far as possible, from the faucet or faucets at the kitchen sink, or, in some cases, from a faucet in the yard. Where an extra charge is made for a hot water faucet, or kitchen boiler, this is included in the family rate.

WATER-CLOSET.—Some self-closing type of closet is always included under this head, where rates for other kinds are given. Where a very low rate for a pan closet was found in a schedule, accompanied by a moderate one for some more approved sanitary type, the latter has been taken.

BATH TUB.—The rate given always includes the privilege of using both hot and cold water.

WASH BOWL.—The remark under bath tub also applies here. Occasionally the schedules state that no charge is made for a wash bowl where rates are paid for other services, and often wash bowls are not mentioned on the schedules.

HORSE AND CARRIAGE.—This rate includes the use of a stable hose for washing carriages. When the schedules made no mention of a higher rate for carriage washing, with or without hose, it was assumed that no extra charge is made.

HOSE FOR LAWN SPRINKLING.—Where the charge varied with the size of the lawn, a lot 50×150 ft. was taken as a basis. Washing sidewalks is included when specific rates for this service are quoted, and street sprinkling is excluded whenever an extra charge is made for it.

METER RATES.—The first item under this head is the minimum charge per year for water where a meter is used. Next comes the highest and lowest rate, depending upon the quantity of water used. As a side light on these two prices, the next two columns indicate the quantities of water upon which the maximum and minimum rates are based, while the last column states whether the quantities are daily averages, or totals for a month or a longer period. As stated in the foot notes, Sl indicates a sliding scale, but the term is used only when the lowest rate per 1,000 galls. cannot be computed without knowing the exact quantity of water used, as where a certain price is charged, say for the first 10,000 galls., and diminishing prices for each additional like quantity, with a final price named for all above a certain quantity. Sp indicates that the rates, meter or otherwise, are subject to special agreeme nt or to the will of the officials in charge.

TO MUNICIPAL OFFICIALS

The best medium for municipal advertising (because it is the paper most carefully read and most frequently consulted by municipal engineers and contractors) is

ENGINEERING NEWS

In 1896, there were published in this journal 692 different proposal advertisements, 1,452 separate insertions, averaging over 27 proposal advertisements in each issue, which were divided as follows:

GARBAGE DISPOSAL: 8 advts.; 15 insertions.
ELECTRIC LIGHT: 26 advts.; 63 insertions.
BRIDGES: 44 advts.; 89 insertions.
SEWERS: 90 advts.; 162 insertions.
ROAD WORK: 93 advts.; 148 insertions.
BUILDINGS: 73 advts.; 146 insertions.
WATER-WORKS: 151 advts.; 280 insertions, and MISCELLANEOUS: 217 advts.; 559 insertions.

All important contracts should be advertised in Engineering News, if extensive competition is desired from reliable contractors and manufacturers. The cost of advertising is very reasonable, and the result is invariably satisfactory.

HENRY R. WORTHINGTON

Worthington Pumping Engines have been manufactured since 1845.

The enormous increase in output, the number of duplicate orders received and the record made by those in service are sufficient evidence as to their unequaled merit.

They will perform the highest duties and give high duties at slow speed.

They are most suitable for direct pressure pumping and reservoir service.

The present patterns are up to date in every respect and the workmanship is strictly high-grade.

Water-Works men are always welcome at the

STOP THAT TALK! about not having Fire Pressure. Put in one of

at your Standpipe or Reservoir and pump direct during fire. This valve is closed or opened at will in Pumphouse. Distance to valve is immaterial; two lines of wire are used. If you have a valve already in place at your Standpipe or Reservoir that you wish to have under control in Pumphouse, our Hydraulic Cylinder Piston and Controlling Device can be furnished to fit such valve. For particulars write

WM. ENGBERG, Inventor and Builder, ST. JOSEPH, MICH.

The Beaumont Fire Hydrant

Is simple, durable, frostproof, inexpensive and in efficiency unapproachable.

The valves are of the best gun metal.

All hydrants are tested to 200 lbs. hydraulic pressure. It will deliver a fire stream of larger volume and greater force than any other hydrant; a most valuable feature in gravity systems.

Recommended by Nat'l Assoc'n of Fire Engineers, 1888.

Extract from appendix to report on hydrant tests, by Selim H. Peabody, Ph. D., LL. D., Regent, University of Illinois:

Beaumont -	6.2	Friction loss per cent. in lbs. per square inch in hydrants used without nozzle, 50 feet of hose.

15,456 METERS SOLD IN 1896.

Catalogue on Application.

The numbered wheels of the Register are made of PORCELAIN, with figures enameled thereon at high heat. They are more lasting in service than the regular enameled dial. The driving wheels on each side of the numbered wheels are made of solid brass, accurately machined and these are mounted with the porcelain wheels by a special process, thus forming a perfectly solid piece. The black enameled figures baked on white enameled porcelain, in connection with the brass gears, ensure plain reading and a good wear of the parts. The "Star," like the ordinary Register, is mounted in the top cup of the meter; it can always be turned around at the time when the meter is set, so as to have the reading facing the inspector. The top dial is of copper, enameled, and has a small index, by means of which quick and accurate tests may be made. Should necessity require, the top dial can easily be replaced by removing the two top screws and slipping the small index-hand off, after loosening the gear screw, without having to unsolder the index hand. "Bee" and "Lambert" Meters, in all sizes from ¾ to 6 inches, inclusive, with this straight-reading register, the "Star," can be supplied on demand.
